

Illustrator/Artist-in-Residence Program at
Denver Botanic Gardens School of Botanical Art and Illustration.

This is an exciting opportunity for illustrators/artists to get involved in the daily happenings at Denver Botanic Gardens. Residents will document the Rocky Mountain plant world, interpreting the botanic gardens' purpose as a place of preservation, conservation, education and diversity into images or works which bring others enjoyment and a deeper understanding of the environment some may never visit. The works completed under this residency contribute to the public understanding and appreciation of our gardens and offer an opportunity to see our activities through the eyes of the contributing residents.

Interaction with visitors is encouraged, ranging from hosting an open studio to presenting a public demonstration. Opportunities for online and social media presence possible.

The residency provides a stipend to be used for both housing and materials.

International Residents

Special considerations and tax forms are required. An artist-in-residence must be proficient in English to gain the most from the experience
